Hi Andrew and Tom,

These are the files we used to create the PDFs that were released (I included the Question/response too for your files).

Remember to unformat the citations before you really get into editing (Jessica can help you).

Jessica – can you also help and make sure these files are in their QA and Peer Review folders?

Thanks!

Vicki

Sorry to pepper you with two asks at once, Vicki and Dahnish. But, can you please point Tom and I to the word versions of the formaldehyde draft materials that we should use as a base for our post-NASEM review versions? I know that there were some last-minute technical edits before they were pdf'd, so I want to make sure we are working with the most up-to-date drafts and don't introduce any version control issues.

Thanks!

Certainly a good idea to collect all the changes we already know we want to make.

I wonder if we should start a working "final" draft somewhere? There are a couple notes I want to add in advance of the NAS report anyway:

-add David B. as contributor

- make sure Brian P.'s affiliation is corrected
- check characterization of Recio study
- perhaps add the NAS (2011)-like figure on selection for dose-response (already developed and used in ppts)
- consider adding workflow/process steps to Preface, perhaps dependent on NASEM input

Sure. He did contribute and I found him very helpful.
